Types of Outlines // Purdue Writing Lab

Knowing how the agency grouped its records is always helpful because the original groupings should be reflected in the final arrangement. It is obvious that arrangement work on the level involving filing units is of various grades of difficulty and calls for the time of personnel of various grades from that of literate laborers through the subprofessional grades, and from the lower professional grades up to the middle grades.

How to write an outline

Developing an FNC is done through identifying the key elements of the project, the important differences and commonalities between your files. Back in the day as an elementary and a student, the subjects have remained the same throughout the years: Math, Science, English, and Civics Social Sciences.

Subject & Chronological Classification of Files

Most of the time, an idea is just an idea.

Subject Vertical Files

It will have to get along with what it inherits, making minor adjustments at most. We are here considering physical rearrangement, not rearrangement on paper, which the archivist is free to do to his heart's content if he can find time and money for it. Chronological classification of filing is very simple to operate.

15+ Topic Proposal Outline Templates

Considerable variation is possible in any large record group, and no two archivists, no matter how experienced, would make the same decisions. You will be able to write more specific arguments about an idea rather than general ones that will only result in more questions to.
